DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I (claims 1-28) in the reply filed on August 3, 2004 is acknowledged.

During a telephone interview with Ronald Schoenbaum on October 18, 2004, Mr. Schoenbaum indicated that claims 9, 22-27 have been canceled; claims 9, 22-27 will be grouped with already cancelled claims 29-33 (previously elected).

In the claims

Claims 9, 22-28 have been cancelled.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Ronald Schoenbaum on October 18, 2004

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 7-8, 10-11, 16 and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted prior art [figs. 1-4, page 1, line 10 to page 3, line 30], in view of de Hond (US Patent No. 5,796,395).

As per claims 1, 8, and 10-11, and 19-20, Applicant's admitted prior art (Figs. 1 & 2) discloses network personal management system, comprising:

a networked server system that provides a user interface having functionality for users to establish relationship with other users that each user may have one or more contacts (Fig. 2, item 1-30).

a database that stores relationship data indicating the relationship established between the users via the user interface, wherein the relationship data identifies, for each respective user, which other users are contacts of the respective user (fig. 2, item 148);

Applicant's admitted prior art teaches all of the limitations above. However, applicant's admitted prior art fails to disclose a search module that provides functionality for users to search the database for contacts of their respective contacts, such that a first user may submit a search request to identify other users that are contacts of contacts of the first user de Hond in the same field of endeavor, discloses a system which allows a user to submit a search query for identifying other contact users of interest of the user search for where users can find and make contact with people of similar interests (affinity groups) the system comprises a plurality of clients and server (col. 3, line 42-col. 4, line 45 and col. 11, lines 13-32). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use de Hond's teaching to modify the system of Applicant's admitted prior art by permitting the users to search for contacts of their respective contacts. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Applicant's admitted prior art in view of de Hond by allowing a user to submit a search query for other contact users of interest of a users. A person having ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to use such a modification in order to provide consistent and updated information to all persons in contact with the user.

As per claims 7, and 16, de Hond further discloses a software application that displays to the user the personal information in fields such as real name, nick name, zip code, e-mail address, date of birth, etc., each field is represented by an icon in a pull-down menu (col. 9, lines 24-44) and users query the database to select others based on one or more of these various fields (col. 10, lines 43-45).

5. Claims 2-6, 12-15, 17-18, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted prior art (figs. 1-4, page 1, line 10 to page 3, line 30], in view of de Hond (US. Pat. No. 5,796,395)) as applied to claim 1 above and further in view of Herz et al (US Patent No. 5, 835,087).

As per claims 2-6 and 12-15, 17-18, Applicant's admitted prior art teaches wherein the database additionally includes personal data records of the users (col. 2, lines 37-44). However, Applicant's admitted prior art combination with de Hond fails to explicitly disclose the concept of permission level granted by respective user. Herz et al on other hand discloses summary for each user to be used to efficiently organize the distribution of information in a large scale system consisting of many users interconnected by means of a communication network, to ensure privacy of a user's target profile interest summary, the user is given control over the ability of third parties to access this summary and to identify or contact the user (col. 1, lines 35-43). The user may desire that all or part of the target profile interest summary be kept confidential such as information relating to the user's political, religions behavior, etc. The data in user's target profile interest summary be protected from unwanted disclosure except with the user's agreement (col. 5, lines 40-48).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Hertz's teaching to modify the system of Applicant's admitted prior art, in view of de Hond with the motivation to grant permission to access personal information on an individual basis and solely in accordance with an associated permissions granted by the user for all or part of (fields) his personal information in order to keep the contact information of each member confidential, allow each member to control access of his personal data on case by case consent and achieve privacy protection in an electronic information delivery network, which makes the system more attractive for the users and increase it's utility.
